Du potager à l'assiette

Cross-média

Divertissement

What if we put our eating habits back at the center of our lives?

Every Saturday before the news, Mélanie Guisset & Julien Lapraille give you precise, invaluable advice on how to bring your vegetable garden to life. And above all, to enjoy it! With family and friends, plenty of vegetables and no fuss. "Du potager à l'assiette" is not a moralistic approach, just a return to real values....

- 1 x 2.30m capsule each week
- Broadcast on Saturdays at 19:15 before the news.
- A recipe with an ingredient found in the garden and made available by Mélanie Guisset
- Julien makes the recipe based on Mélanie's products.
- The content will be available on AUVIO with embedding possible

"I understood, by putting my hands in the earth, how much connecting to nature, to the cycle of life, to the fact that we can succeed into nature, to the cycle of life, to the fact that we can succeed in that we can succeed in that we can succeed in the vegetables we eat ourselves, can bring us bring us so much joy and pleasure...".

Mélanie Guisset

Wife, mom, psychologist, Instagrammer, farmer, cook... Melanie has many hats.

In 2021, she changes her life and launches her Instagram account, @melting.green, with "good green plans, in joy and without guilt".

And if finally, this is what people needed today?

Julien Lapraille was discovered in the 5th season of the TV show "Top Chef". Our compatriot stood out for his good humor, naturalness and simple yet generous cuisine. Prior to this famous year 2014, Julien worked in great restaurants such as Le Gastronome in Paliseul (), Aux armes de Champagne in Châlons en Champagne (), at the restaurant Le nouveau Patin d'or () and as chef de parti viande at the Italian restaurant Le Mosconi located in Luxembourg (*).

Julien Lapraille

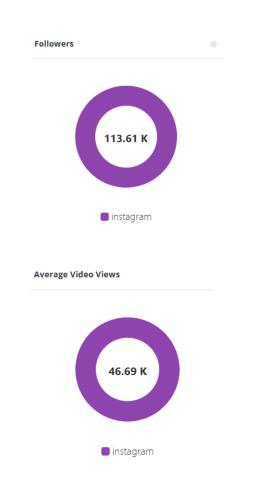

The show literally propelled the young Gaumais' career. Since that day in April 2014, Julien hasn't rested on his laurels – on the contrary! A home chef for 8 years and owner of his local store Le Marché de Julien since 2017, he has been one of RTBF's new faces since September 2023, notably for the program "Les Ambassadeurs". Organizer of local markets, gourmet walks and culinary events of all kinds, this defender of the products of our beautiful terroir loves to innovate and pass on his passion.
